

I strongly feel that the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protection. Before we had this Telephone Privacy law, I was inundated with calls during the day and on weekends I could expect six or eight call, now I might receive one a 'month'. What you (FCC) are proposing ...credit card companies, phone companies, and anyone that you consider as an "existing customer" be allowed to call me is placing me 'back' receiving the same amount of call as I did before. Stop and think for just a moment - I, as well as everyone else receives in their billing statement every month solicitation from these companies. If I need to call them in reference to one of their ads that I receive in the mail, then I am very capable of doing so. I would much rather call them, instead of them calling me, when I really 'don't' want to receive a call from them. Please, let ME be the one who decides when and if I want to receive a phone call from a company. Thank You..
